The Narada Bhakti Sutra

Devotion in the self is the nature of the lord who destroys the path of destruction.

Devotees are blessed with
- Unity with the gods
- Purified hearts
- Happy families as well as the physical body
- No distraction from spiritual trek
- Spiritual authority to scriptural

Devotion ...

Devotees are blessed with:
- Unity with the gods
- Purified hearts
- Happy families as well as the physical body
- No distraction from spiritual trek
- Spiritual authority to scriptural

The Narada Bhakti Sutra

Devotion in the self is the nature of the lord who destroys the path of destruction.

Devotees are blessed with:
- Unity with the gods
- Purified hearts
- Happy families as well as the physical body
- No distraction from spiritual trek
- Spiritual authority to scriptural

The Narada Bhakti Sutra is a collection of 64 aphorisms encircling Bhakti (devotion to God). The aphorisms have been authored by sage Narada, a great devotional bard aiming at the highest plane of devotion. They are offered to the devotee as advice and instruction for achieving spiritual growth. This text is considered one of the most important scriptures on Bhakti in Hinduism. The Narada Bhakti Sutra is considered to be one of the significant scriptures in the Bhakti movement and a valuable guide for those seeking spiritual growth and devotion to God.